Wildlife Trust :Orchids and 30 Days Wild

June is when Cambourne nature reserve looks at its best - and the time when the orchids start flowering on verges and in grassland. Here are a few to look out for:

Bee orchid - this species is named for fact that it mimics a bee. In southern part of its range around the Mediterranean it is pollinated by male solitary bees who are duped by its scent and shape into thinking it is a female bee. Here in the UK it is self-pollinating as that pollinating bee species isn't found in this country.

Common spotted orchid is the UK's most common orchid and found in a variety of habitats - woodlands, grasslands, and verges. Getting its name from the spots on its leaves (although other orchids do also have spotted leaves), the flowers can be white or pink with dark pink markings, and attracting lots of insects, especially beetles.

Pyramidal orchid is named after the shape of the flower head - cone-shaped early on as the flowers at the bottom open first. The flowers are deep pink and pollinated by moths and butterflies. June is also a great time for insects. Watch out for the thick-legged flower beetle - shiny green with muscular-looking back legs in the male - and the marbled white butterfly, chequered black and white, feeding on the meadow flowers. 30 Days Wild This month also is when folks all over the country join in with the national Wildlife Trusts' initiative 30 Days Wild throughout June - it's not too late to sign up to receive a FREE pack with fun activities throughout the month to bring inspiration. Free and easy to take part with a pick of 30 easy ways to connect with nature.

Thanks for keeping dogs on leads, especially around lakes and in arable fields and meadow (eg Crow Hill on Cambourne Nature Reserve), where birds nest on or near the ground. Fledgling birds will be all around at this time of year and are very vulnerable to disturbance by dogs and people.

Hoping for new swans

The Cygnet Ring

One day you just weren't there
 We wondered where you'd gone
 Standing by the lake, shading our eyes
 We searched for the missing swan
 Weeks later and you're back
 Making our collective hearts sing
 You brought a fresh circle of life
 Six gems in a new cygnet ring

COMMUNITY

Kerry, the compassionate nurse, drives community minibus to connect hearts

A dedicated nurse devotes her free time to bridge gaps and strengthen community bonds.

In a world often defined by self-interest, it is heartening to witness individuals who go above and beyond to make a positive impact in their communities. Meet Kerry Gorman, a remarkable woman who not only serves as a dedicated nurse at Royal Papworth Hospital, but also selflessly volunteers her spare time to drive the community minibus, connecting people and fostering a sense of togetherness.

Kerry Gorman, 41, has been a nurse from the age of 18, tending to the needs of patients with compassion and professionalism. Known for her warm smile and gentle demeanour, she has become a beloved figure among both her colleagues and the patients she cares for. However, Kerry's desire to make a difference doesn't stop at the hospital doors.

In her free time, while many people unwind or catch up on personal errands, Kerry trades her relaxation time for the steering wheel of the community minibus. This invaluable service fosters a sense of community and togetherness. The bus has also become a hub of friendship, with passengers sharing stories, laughter, and companionship during their journeys.

Kerry Gorman's devotion to her profession, coupled with her unwavering commitment to driving the community minibus, exemplifies the extraordinary impact an individual can have when driven by empathy and compassion. Her actions remind us that it is through acts of kindness, both big and small, that we can forge stronger, more connected communities.

As we celebrate the remarkable contributions of Kerry Gorman, let us be inspired by her selflessness and strive to emulate her in our own lives. For it is in giving that we receive, and in connecting with others that we find the true richness of community.

Opportunity for the nation to come together

The highlight of my month was undoubtedly the coronation. I was fortunate enough to be able to watch the procession from outside the Abbey. I'm sure many of you would have noticed the rather unfortunate weather but it certainly did not dampen spirits. Although, I could not help but feel for the soldiers wearing their thick woollen coats in such conditions.

Events like the coronation provide an opportunity for the nation to come together. It also provides an opportunity to reflect – not just on her Majesty but also on the way the country has changed since 1953. The various faith leaders playing crucial roles displayed the diversity of our national life and how our institutions adapt to the changing country they serve.

It has been a busy month for me personally as well. I was appointed as the Government's anti-fraud champion. Fraud is the most common crime in the United Kingdom, and it is perpetrated against decent, hard-working people. Fraudsters have become an organised business predicated on targeting the earnings of ordinary people.

It is a source of immense pride to be asked to serve my country in a cause I am passionate about. I am confident that we will be able to make a tangible difference to people's lives across the county.

If you have any comments or opinions on any issue which you believe I may be able to assist with, please contact me.

Cambourne stands strong and united

Cambourne stands as a strong and united community, setting a remarkable example for a thriving and cohesive society.

On the World Day for Cultural Diversity for Dialogue and Development, I met with Cambourne residents from diverse backgrounds, joined by Anthony Browne MP. They expressed their satisfaction with living in Cambourne for themselves and their children. However, transportation and the absence of a local post office were mentioned as challenges.

Recognising the importance of accessible healthcare services, I am working to explore the possibility of opening GP services during evening hours. I am also in discussions with local pharmacies to understand ongoing changes. To foster dialogue and find effective solutions, a public consultation involving the pharmacy, GP surgery, Town and County Council, and residents will be organised. The goal is to establish a smart working system for prescriptions that caters to the community's needs.

The Cambourne Community Minibus has become a cherished resource for community groups, schools, and retirement homes in Cambourne. To plan trips, please contact me.

I am closely working with the NHS's social prescription program, where residents require care and support within the community.

In addition to these efforts, I am working towards integrating the communities of West Cambourne with Lower, Great, and Upper Cambourne and organising community events that cater for their specific needs.

Diabetes awareness

June 12th-18th is Diabetes Awareness Week.

Insulin is a hormone made by the pancreas which helps move glucose (sugar) from the blood stream into the cells to make energy. Diabetes is when there is either not enough insulin in the body or the insulin does not work properly.

There are two types of diabetes: Type 1 develops due to a problem with the immune system; usually begins at a young age and is not related to lifestyle. More commonly, 90% of adults with diabetes will have Type 2. You are more at risk of Type 2 diabetes if you are over 40, overweight, have a close relative with diabetes or are of S. Asian, Chinese or black African origin.

Symptoms of diabetes are: feeling thirsty, tiredness, passing more wee than normal, weight loss, blurred vision, wounds that take a long time to heal and thrush. Uncontrolled diabetes can be linked to problems with vision, nerve damage, heart disease, stroke and kidney damage.

Type 2 diabetes can be managed (and often prevented) by eating a healthy diet with low levels of sugar, keeping a healthy weight and exercising regularly. Regular monitoring of blood pressure, blood sugar, kidney health, eye and foot health are all important. Medication may be necessary to keep blood sugar in a safe range but changes to lifestyle can make a real difference.

CHURCHES

CAMBOURNE CHURCH

We are excited about the arrival of a new member of staff for Cambourne Church. This month Clare Cronin will be taking up a full-time position as the ministry team leader for children and young people. It is a number of years since we had youth and children specialists on the church staff team so watch this space as we seek to develop our engagement with children, young people and their families.

Clare grew up in St Neots and went to university in Winchester. She has worked with young people in Cambridgeshire for over seven years in churches, schools, and local communities. She is passionate about empowering children and young people to discover their God-given value, purpose, and hope. If the question is "Tea?" then Clare's answer is "Yes, please!" She enjoys watching TV, listening to music, and seeing Fulham win (... she can dream). Clare is also a graphic designer.

Do give her a warm welcome if and when you get to meet her.

Peacehaven Baptist Church: Pastoral Thoughts

The Blessings of the Father. In June we celebrate Father's Day. Being a father is an awesome responsibility. Now I do not mean simply being a genetic donor to the production of a new life as that does not require commitment and in our society, it seems to be a rarer thing. No, I am speaking about the Biblical role of a good father. Ideally, a good father is one that should be a shining example of what a man should be. A role model to your sons showing them the skills and pitfalls in life. You should also be an example to your daughters of what a decent man should be in your treatment of others particularly their mother if she is still in the picture. You must work on a stable relationship, one with commitment, communication, and caring. This is essential as how would your children know what decent treatment is if it is not displayed at home? They certainly will not see many good examples in the world. You must determine to be a person of honesty and integrity. It will not be easy, but have a reputation with them that is unquestionable so they can trust your advice and you can pass on if possible your logical reasons for what you do and

Pastor
Donovan Bangs

why. This often thankless task of fatherhood comes at times with the place of being the one to admonish and guide them. You should be the one to set reasonable boundaries and stick to them only adjusting as the children gain maturity. My advice is to have plans figured out before the children are born if possible. If done correctly they will appreciate it later in life.

Proverbs 22:6 Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

I may not have liked a lot of what my father did when I was young, but the older I get his words have gained greater meaning. Even then I was determined to be a better father than he was and I hope the same for my son. Fathers, we must be a guiding hand with love, mercy, and consistency so as to not provoke anger due to unfair treatment.

Ephesians 6:4 And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Remember true love is shown in word and in deeds. It is work but it is certainly worthy of the effort.

EDUCATION

CVC aims to open community cinema

CAMBOURNE VILLAGE COLLEGE: GCSE exam season is in full swing. Year 11 are on study leave. We're preparing to welcome the Year 6 pupils to their induction days and plans for Activities Week and Sports Days are in place. This year seems to have rolled along incredibly quickly!

In line with our status and commitments as a Village College, a particular highlight has been the opening of a professional-quality theatre in our Performance Hall following five years of fund-raising by members of our Charitable Trust, generous help from the Town and County Councils and the Cam Academy Trust.

This is a wonderful facility for both school and town and we are now seeking new members from the community to join the Charitable Trust, to steer the final phase of the vision: the provision of a cinema for Cambourne.

Community cinemas operate under a franchise that brings the biggest box-office films to smaller venues, just weeks after they open in the main cinema venues. As well as film, there is scope to live-stream productions from West End theatres, opera and ballet, to hold film events and lectures, screenings for audiences with disabilities. This could be a brilliant amenity for the town if there is enough interest. It's envisaged that the cinema would open with a few screenings per week and could build to the point that it would employ staff.

The hall in our new sixth form building, opening 24 September, is the perfect size for a community cinema and will be furnished with comfortable, individual, tiered seats and blackout. However fundraising is needed to upgrade a school-quality projector and sound system to a professional standard, and volunteers are needed to form a steering group to plan for the running of the cinema.

The school is offering this potential amenity to the town however, the existing members of the CVC Charitable Trust are resigning this summer, their original theatre project achieved. If you would be interested in being part of this exciting new cinema venture, please do contact me: ccoates@cambournevc.org so that a new direction and membership of the Trust can be formed.

Jeavons Wood celebrates the King's Coronation

Jeavons Wood Primary School: There was a lot of excitement as we prepared to celebrate the King's Coronation. Even the rain couldn't stop us from planting new flower beds and a wonderful Coronation tree which now has pride of place in the school grounds. We would like to say a huge 'thank you' to Andy from Arrington Garden Centre for donating the plants and tree and for spending time at our school to help us with the planting.

We also made a time capsule where all kids wrote letters, explaining what life is like for us in 2023, which we have now buried. Our children were very excited to think that people could be reading about them many years from now!

We finished the day with a rousing rendition of the Coronation song we had learned as well as a fantastic picnic, complete with lots of singing and dancing! We think we can safely say that the pupils all had a wonderful time, and so did

The Vine joins in the Coronation celebrations

The Vine Primary School: The Union Jack flag was raised amongst a sea of red, white and blue across the school. Pupils in Reception and Preschool enjoyed celebrating the coronation of King Charles. They learnt about the King's life as a prince, a coronation and the other members of the Royal family.

They made their own royal crowns and Union Jack flags for the party, shared food, listened to music and gave 3 cheers for the King.

The pupils enjoyed writing and wrote letters to the King. We hope he enjoys reading about our special celebrations.

"King Charles, I hope you live forever" Anabelle

"A coronation is where the King gets his crown" Aaron

"I think a crown would be really heavy to wear" Alfie

"This is the best day, ever!" Benji

The rest of the school marked the historic occasion by collecting samples of the activities to store in a time capsule. Activities included: decorating biscuits, creating golden carriages, keyrings and king collages, and baking scones for a teaparty. All enjoyed a fabulous special coronation lunch too. A truly fabulous day to remember.

COMMUNITY

CamCare UK raises funds for Japanese School in Cambridge with Sushi making workshop

Mr Soumya Ranjan Patel and Mr Venkat Kommi of CamCare UK hosted a hands-on sushi-making workshop last month where participants learned to create their own delicious sushi rolls.

Mr Yoshiro Shiba, who is the Headmaster of a Japanese School in Cambridge, is also a Sushi expert and instructor who guided the participants through the process, and techniques for creating perfect rolls. The workshop was a great opportunity to expand culinary skills for the beginner and for a seasoned pro. The Sushi workshop was conducted in a relaxed environment. All ingredients and materials were provided by Mr. Yoshiro, and other members of the Japanese school also helped in running the workshop.

CERC's Young Innovators Shine at First Lego League Finals

Local robotics club students inspire future STEM enthusiasts with their talent.

Cambridge Electronics and Robotics Club (CERC) is dedicated to fostering young talent in electronics, robotics, and STEM. Recently, CERC's young innovators participated in the First Lego League (FLL) finals held in Harrogate, showcasing their immense potential and emphasising the importance of STEM education.

Two CERC teams, CERC-Activate and CERC-Innovate, competed in the FLL finals, facing challenges in Robot Run, Robot Design, Innovation Project, and Core Values. The theme for this year's competition was "SuperPowered." CERC-Activate's project, Ecochain, was a blockchain solution for trading surplus energy, while CERC-Innovate's project, CleanCar, aimed to improve fuel efficiency in cars using on-board diagnostics (OBD) technology.

One team received the Rising All Stars award for their Innovation Project, impressing judges with their cutting-edge technology vision. The other team ranked 12th out of 70 and competed in the Nationals Knockout.

CERC's achievements in the FLL finals inspire other children to explore their passion for STEM. Competitions like these help students develop essential skills, such as problem-solving, teamwork, and effective communication, while gaining valuable experience in handling challenging situations and complex concepts.

CERC will continue to support more children in developing their love for STEM and discovering their potential as future leaders. With the help of dedicated coaches, mentors, and parents, and the unwavering commitment of the club, these young minds will continue to excel in STEM. Through innovative projects, collaborative teamwork, and competitive challenges, CERC students are poised to make a lasting impact on their communities and the world. As they look forward to new challenges, the sky is truly the limit for them.

DISTRICT COUNCIL

South Cambs District Council reduces working week to four days and continues to pay staff a full time wage

For three months, South Cambridgeshire District Council has been running a trial whereby full time staff have only been working for four days per week and receiving a full time wage.

The (Liberal Democrat controlled) council has stated that the four day week has increased productivity and reduced costs, however critics of the scheme claim that this has created delays, increased costs and have suggested an alternative rationale for the scheme. The four day week was also raised at Prime Ministers Questions.

The Cambourne Crier wishes to present all sides of the argument.

First there is the case presented by the council summarised in their press release below (abridged), followed by alternative viewpoints from Anthony Browne MP and the Tax Payer Alliance which challenge some of the points made.

Four-day week trial extension at SCDC shows services maintained – and some improved

A trial of a four-day week at South Cambridgeshire District Council has been extended by 12 months, after independently reviewed data showed the initial pilot was a success. At a time of increased public sector spending pressures, the four-day week aims to allow the Council to continue to deliver excellent services to residents and businesses, whilst improving consistency and reducing cost.

Following the well-publicised success of many similar trials in the private sector, the District Council became the first local authority in the country to trial this way of working between January and March 2023. Around 450 desk-based staff have been involved. The Council decided to undertake the trial because of the acute recruitment and retention issues it was facing – mirroring the national recruitment and retention situation in the public sector.

Before the trial started, the Council was spending about £2million a year on agency staff, often in specialist roles where the private sector pays more. This bill could be halved if all the agency posts were filled permanently. Although the three-month trial wasn't expected to see improvement in recruitment, because there was no certainty about whether it would continue, the Council's annual wage bill has already decreased by £300,000. Additionally, some staff have decided to stay at the Council when they may have otherwise moved-on.

The Council outlined in September 2022 how, for more than a year, it had only been able to fill around eight out of every ten, or fewer, of its vacancies. Not being able to fill vacant posts – or using agency staff to cover them – is not only expensive but also disruptive.

At a meeting on 15th May Cabinet members agreed to extend the four-day week trial up until the end of March 2024. The Council had already pledged to investigate expanding the trial to its bin crews.

What is a Four Day Week?

A four-day week is where staff complete 100% of their work, in 80% of the time, for 100% of their pay, by becoming more productive.

The Council had outlined how it would use its standard performance metrics which are regularly monitored to keep a check on how services performed during the three-month trial from January to March this year.

An industry-standard health and wellbeing survey was also used to measure the impact on staff, with one survey carried out in August 2022 before the four-day week trial was announced, and a follow-up in April this year.

The Bennett Institute for Public Policy at the University of Cambridge was asked to independently review the Council's data from the trial, to ensure it was analysed without any risk of bias. They analysed data from 18 different key areas, covering performance in Planning, Housing, Transformation, Human Resources and Corporate Services and Finance.

The data shows:

- Nine out of the 16 areas monitored show substantial improvement when comparing the trial period from January to March to the same period in 2022.
- The remaining seven areas monitored either remain at similar levels compared to the same period last year or saw a slight decline.
- The Bennett Institute noted however that not a single area of performance fell to a concerning level during the trial.

The full data from the trial has been published on the Council's website.

At May's Cabinet meeting, Cabinet members agreed to approve the trial of a four-day week waste collection service for three months from this summer. Cambridge City Council will also discuss and consider these plans before this is confirmed.

If Cambridge City Council agree, it will mean changes to bin days for some residents across Greater Cambridge later this year.

Please note that the Council is currently trialling a four-day week to improve recruitment, retention and wellbeing. My working days are therefore Tuesday to Friday. On my non-working day (Monday), you can contact communications@scambs.gov.uk instead.

The discussion on the four day week trial continues on next page where alternative viewpoints are expressed.

Letter from Anthony Browne, MP for Cambourne to Leader of SCDC Council, Councillor Bridget Smith, in response to four day week

Dear Bridget,

Re: Lack of transparency around 4-Day Week Trial

Last year, under your leadership and with your full support, the Liberal Democrats at South Cambridgeshire District Council voted to trial a controversial new working arrangement for council staff. During the trial, officers in full-time desk-based roles worked a 4-day week instead of 5 (part-time staff hours reduced by 20%) with no reduction in overall pay.

Last week, it was revealed that, for the last three years, the Council's Chief Executive has been undertaking a part-time PhD focused on the 4-day week. It has also been confirmed that whilst she is paying for PhD herself, she intends to use the data from the Council's trial to support her PhD thesis.

UKRI defines a conflict of interest as 'a situation in which an individual's ability to exercise judgement or act in one role is, could be, or is seen to be impaired or otherwise influenced by their involvement in another role or relationship'. The Chief Executive's leading role in proposing and promoting the 4-day working week trial to Councillors - whilst at the same time intending to use the data for her own PhD study - clearly falls within this definition.

You have confirmed that the Chief Executive disclosed details of her PhD studies to you and other senior councillors from the outset. This information was, however, not shared with other councillors or the public. Whether or not there is an express legal duty of disclosure, it is clearly in the public interest to have transparency around such issues. One can only conclude that you and a select group of your fellow councillors made a conscious decision to withhold wider disclosure of this information.

At last week's meeting of the Council's Employment and Staffing Committee, committee members were asked to consider a draft report and recommend it to the Council's Cabinet for approval. The report (for which the Chief Executive is the lead officer) hails the trial of the 4-day week as a success and recommends that it be extended to March 2024, together with an additional three-month trial for facilities staff. Again, this is a clear conflict of interest as the lead officer of the report stands to benefit personally from the further data acquired from an extended and expanded trial.

It is, of course, not unusual for those in leadership roles to undertake academic studies either on a self-funded or employer-funded basis. This can be beneficial for both the employee, who gains qualifications that enhance their earning potential and career prospects and for the employer, who may benefit from the new knowledge and skills their employee brings to the organisation. But senior managers do not normally change the entire working practice of their organisation as part of data gathering experiment for their self-funded studies. (Abridged) The letter continues, and asked a series of specific questions regarding who was made aware of the situation and whether legal advice was sought.

The Prime Minister, Rishi Sunak says residents deserve better from SCDC

The Prime Minister has criticised service reductions at South Cambridgeshire District Council (SCDC) and urged them to reconsider their four-day working week programme.

As part of the regular Prime Minister's Question Time, South Cambs' MP Anthony Browne raised the continuing trial of a four-day working week for SCDC's staff. Highlighting the increased costs and reduction in services following the Four Day week trial, which includes a decrease in the proportion of phone calls answered and huge rises in the time to process benefit claims, Mr

In response to a question from Anthony Browne, MP for South Cambridgeshire, the Prime Minister reiterated his point and called on the Council to reconsider their proposals, saying:

"Public servants should rightly focus on delivering for the public and taxpayers, and it is disappointing to hear from my Hon. Friend that his local Liberal Democrat Council is not doing this, reducing – as I heard – staff contact hours and costing residents more. I urge the Council to reconsider their decision because his residents and constituents in South Cambridgeshire District Council deserve better"

Mr Browne commented: "What is happening in South Cambs is a travesty that deserves national attention. Residents are putting up with poorer services and increase in costs, as a result of a policy they have had no vote on....."

Both articles submitted by the offices of Anthony Browne MP

Research by the Taxpayer Alliance regarding four day week at SCDC

Residents of Cambourne and South Cambridgeshire will have a part time council until at least March 2024. This isn't something they were properly asked about, let alone given the chance to vote for.

The four-day working week trial, which began in January 2023 and was initially only supposed to run until March 2023, will now run until March 2024 after a meeting on 15th May. It means 100 per cent pay, for just 80 per cent of hours. It means that since 2017/18 residents of Cambourne and South Cambridgeshire have seen their council tax go up by 20 per cent, while the staff at their local authority have seen their hours reduced by 20 per cent.

From our conversations with local residents, we know why they are concerned. They are concerned that the council's performance, already disappointing while working five days, will suffer. The council's own data shows less than impressive results from the trial. The amount of time it takes them to answer the phone has almost doubled.

Councils are providers of vital services that have a direct impact on the lives of local people. The health and wellbeing of council staff is important. But it shouldn't come before the interests of local taxpayers.

With data on the workings of a four-day week currently still so limited, it's completely inappropriate to use a small district council as the subject of this experiment. That is why we launched our campaign to stop the council clock off. While we didn't succeed this time round we will be back for more.

Cambourne MP appointed as PM's anti-fraud champion

Anthony Browne, MP has been appointed by the Prime Minister, Rishi Sunak, to coordinate regulatory and legislative measures to stop fraudsters operating in the UK.

Now the most common crime in Britain, fraud represents 41 per cent of all offences, with one in fifteen people falling victim every year at a cost of nearly £7 billion.

The appointment is part of the government National Fraud Strategy, to take the fight to scammers. Building on previous experience overseeing the banking industry's initiatives to tackle fraud, Mr Browne will lead the government's engagement with tech firms to put scammers out of business as well as building international partnerships to disrupt fraudsters overseas.

Using a multi-pronged approach to tackling fraud, the Strategy is targeted at stopping fraud happening in the first place, with bans on cold calling and 'sim farms' as well as a crackdown on 'number spoofing', which is used by fraudsters to impersonate legitimate UK phone numbers.

These measures will be combined with a public awareness campaign to ensure that fraudsters who try to con victims with unsolicited communications will be shut out.

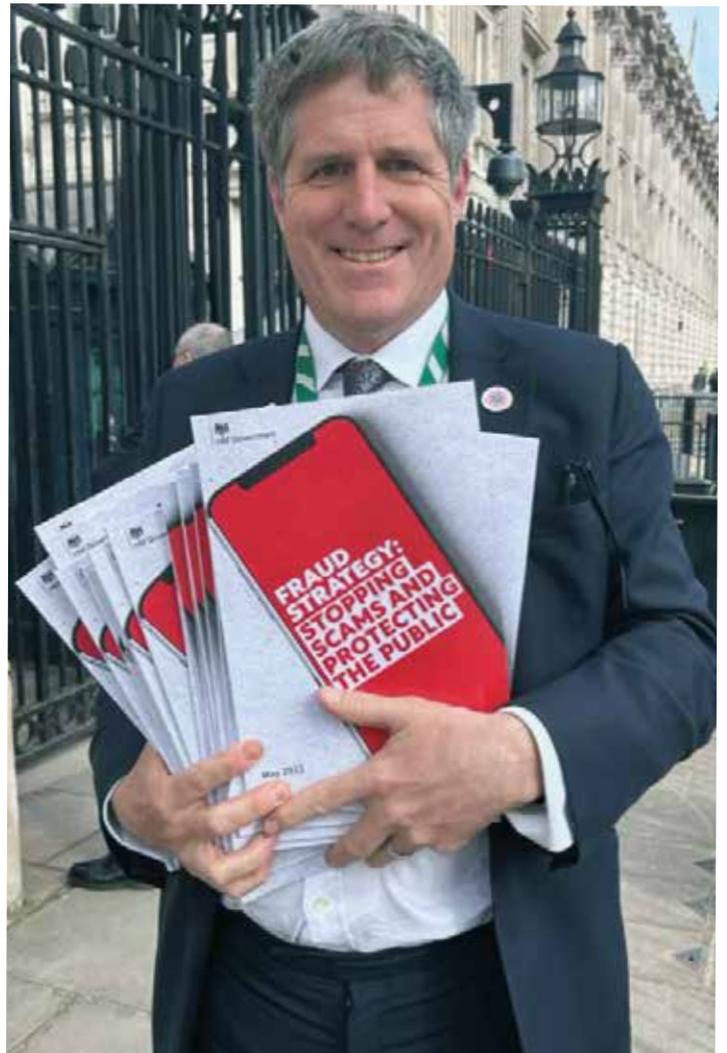

The Strategy also includes a new National Fraud Squad made up of 500 specialist investigators, while the system for reporting fraud is due to be overhauled with a £30 million investment in a simpler route for reporting fraud online.

Mr Browne commented: "Fraud is one of the coldest and most devastating forms of modern crime, with victims stripped of their dignity as well as their savings by anonymous criminals working in gangs, often overseas. This strategy is just the first step the Government will take in cracking down on this multi-billion-pound criminal enterprise, taking aim at the fraudsters toolbox while strengthening our investigative resources.

"I'm delighted to be helping lead this renewed fight against scammers. The Prime Minister and I are determined to put these fraudsters out of business, and this is just the start."

It was reported that this strategy will include:

- Outlaw so-called "SIM farms", technical devices that allow criminals to scam texts to thousands of people at the same time
- Work with Ofcom to stop more cases of number 'spoofing', where scammers impersonate UK numbers and trick people into thinking they're speaking to banks, telephone companies or other legitimate businesses
- Ban cold calls on all financial products, so that anyone who receives calls trying to sell them products such as crypto currency schemes or insurance will know it's a scam
- Launch a new National Fraud Squad led by the National Crime Agency and the City of London Police – backed by 400 new posts work with international partners and make greater use of the UK's intelligence community to identify and disrupt more fraudsters overseas

- Empower and educate people to better protect themselves by investing £30 million in a state-of-the-art reporting centre which will be up and running in the year
- Work with tech companies to make it as simple as possible to report fraud online. Regardless of which social media platform you are on, you should be able to find the 'report' button within a single click
- Look at giving banks more time to process payments, to allow suspicious payments to be investigated and stopping people from falling victim to fraudsters.

Cambourne Team just half a point away from the Gold Medal at National HSS (UK) Sports Competition

Brimming with sporting spirit, several men, women and children from Cambourne and Cambridge participated in the HSS (UK)'s National Sports Competition (Khel Pratiyogita) on 25th and 26th March 2023.

A full weekend dedicated to playing traditional Indian games, kabaddi, kho kho, ring and of course, football!

The women's team from Cambourne and Cambridge came very close to winning the national trophy for the kho kho game achieving the runner up position by a mere half point. This is a game where one team sits down in a row alternately facing opposite directions. One of the members of this team runs to catch the active participants of the opposite team without crossing the line giving kho (a nudge) from behind to a sitting member close to any of the runners. These active runners, three at a time, run weaving through the row, sprinting at times to avoid being caught. Don't be a surprise if you see HSS members practicing sprint runs around Cambourne in preparation for next year with their eyes on the top prize.

Shakhas (branches) from all across the UK came to take part in this tournament. Participants aged six years and above, formed teams to play in their respective age-based leagues, for each sport. After weeks of practising and preparing for the tournament all players engaged in several matches, displaying sporting spirit, discipline and enthusiasm.

This year a record-breaking number of participants were seen, making this HSS (UK)'s most successful Khel Pratiyogita to date. Running over two days, a record breaking 1,403 participants played 404 matches in total!

Cricket Club celebrates the Coronation

CAMBOURNE CRICKET CLUB was delighted to host the Coronation weekend's 'Picnic on the Green' on Monday 08 May - and whilst the weather was less than fit for a King, several hundred residents made their way to Upper Cambourne and enjoyed a Pimm's at the Third Man! With live music providing the perfect backdrop, and even a special edition 'His Majesty' pale ale on offer from the local Lord Conrad's Brewery (Dry Drayton), it was certainly an occasion to remember.

The Third Man bar at the Upper Cambourne pavilion is open every Friday throughout the season, and Saturdays on match days. We hope to see you there - and we again reiterate our thanks for your continued custom and support; as all the income from the Third Man is ploughed back into the Club's facilities, such as a brand new astroturf wicket to be installed at Lower Cambourne later this month.

The development of practice and playing facilities is especially important as we continue to grow - with a flourishing Academy and ever-expanding girls' section that goes from strength to strength. We are again running the ECB's All Stars and Dynamos programmes at Lower until 15 July, and are thrilled that spaces on both these programmes are already fully booked!

With the season now well and truly in full swing, come on down and support the Bombers this June - selected home fixtures for this month below:

Tennis Club to host 24hr marathon for Melanoma UK

CAMBOURNE TENNIS CLUB: Head coach Toby Jackson will host a Charity 24hr Tennis Marathon for Melanoma UK starting midday on Saturday 15th July.

Why is Toby organising this? "Eight years ago, my mum was diagnosed with melanoma. Fortunately, it was spotted early enough to be removed without the cancer spreading further. However, this dramatically changed how my family and those close to us value sun safety," says Toby.

As a tennis coach, I'm exposed to the sun's UV radiation all day, every day. I'm now more aware of protective measures - for example wearing long sleeves, topping up on sun cream more often and regularly checking my body for any new or changed moles/markings.

"I'm organising this event to increase awareness around skin cancer, the 5th most common cancer in the UK. Melanoma UK gives much needed support to patients during the very difficult times faced upon diagnosis. They aim to help patients access the best care available and support them throughout their journeys."

What's the plan? Our event running for a full 24hrs, and will consist of several activities, divided into four hour slots, each with a theme. You can sign up to any number of time slots and play as much or as little as you like within each slot. All abilities will be catered for. Any time on court raising money for charity is amazing.

How long will you last? There will also be extra activities, including tennis with anything but a racket (shoe/cricket bat etc.), a serving speed gun and table tennis! In addition food and drink is available throughout the event, including a BBQ Saturday evening (7 pm) and breakfast on Sunday morning (9am). BBQ food will be £1/item, and other snacks/treats will be 50p. All money raised will be donated to Melanoma UK.

For more details and to sign up for a slot visit www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/24hr-charity-tennis-marathon-tickets-627871178597
